

Lets talk all things 'the private rented sector' Unconference

About the event

The Private Rented Sector (PRS) has now become bigger nationally than the social housing sector. As its size and significance increases, it is an appropriate time for housing professionals and its main professional body, the Chartered Institute of Housing, to be asking what role we have in shaping and influencing policy in the PRS.

This is something that CIH in the East Midlands is particularly interested in exploring, and to this end is hosting an informal "Unconference" event in the morning of 22 November 2018 in Leicester to bring together a range of people with an interest in the PRS and to capture their thinking and ideas. "Unconference" means that there is no formal agenda - people will decide on the day what they want to talk about. Given the breadth of topics concerning the PRS there's certain to be plenty to talk about...

The outcome we seek from this is a steer on how CIH should be seeking to shape policy on the PRS, with a view to forming a CIH special interest group to develop policy and identify.
